

How to find the food model cards from the National Dairy Council

The food model cards that I use in my game entitled “Hoop it up with the Food Pyramid” come from the National Dairy Council. Listed below is information that will help you in ordering materials from them.

The web page link below will send you to the National Dairy Council’s catalog. You may copy and paste this address into your internet address bar or you can place the cursor over the address and press down on the control key while clicking on the address. The second method will send you directly to the web page with a catalog of available materials.

<http://www.nutritionexplorations.org/catalog/main.asp>

The web page link below will send you directly to the National Dairy Council’s catalog page that has the paper food models with the nutritional information on the back side of each card. You may copy and paste this address into your internet address bar or you can place the cursor over the address and press down on the control key while clicking on the address.

<http://www.nutritionexplorations.org/catalog/junior.asp>

